

The map displays the Morgental region in Switzerland, with 10 numbered sampling sites marked by colored dots. The sites are distributed across the area, with some clusters and others more isolated. The map includes labels for various locations and roads, providing a detailed view of the study area.